

Gianluca Perrone – Fangorosa

In 2015 he founded Stepping Stone, a research and design laboratory for surfaces and the development of new materials. His work is characterized by a creative process that expresses the concept of fusion: architecture, photography, painting, music and much more are at the center of a synthetic and synesthetic vision of surface design.

Paying particular attention to the production processes, his reflections take concrete form in a tense approach between tradition and contemporaneity: in 2019 Fangorosa, the first e-commerce site of handmade surfaces made in Italy, was born.
